BLT G-FLOOR PARKING PAD

Make over your garage in less than five minutes!

WHEN I FIRST MOVED INTO MY HOUSE, MY ONE-CAR GARAGE was a joke. Sometimes we as gearheads forget that to most people, a garage is simply a place for an economy car and some additional storage. To remedy this travesty, I spent 40 bucks on white paint, about $100 on some fluorescent lighting, and a weekend of my time. But I was still stuck with that ugly concrete floor with its oil stains and hairline cracks.

Paint and lights are cheap, but garage flooring products are usually highly priced so you want to get it right the first time. There are a lot of products out there, but one I felt I couldn't go wrong with was the 10' x 20' G-Floor Image parking pad from Better Life Technology ($934.78). This is a heavy-duty roll-out pad that looks as good as any of the labor-intensive, permanent options on the market. The BLT pad appealed to me at once for two reasons: installation requires only that it be unrolled from its shipping position, and should you move, it can be rolled up again and go with you.

In terms of fitment, my garage is 10'6" x 19'6", so instead of cutting the floor at the back, which BLT suggests, I just left it rolled up in case my next garage is bigger. BLT also makes a 5' x 10' pad ($239.14) and a 7'6" x 17' pad ($608.70). The 90-pound pad is incredibly easy to clean, and now my Harley can live in a space worthy of its pedigree. AIM

Biker Bar

Take your bike. Ditch the straps.

Your motorcycle becomes an extension of your trailer. Now, the trailer's shocks are absorbing the impact of the road instead of your bike's shocks. Less bouncing means a safer ride and no stopping to retighten straps.

Get ready to enjoy the convenience.

Mounting plates bolt to trailer allowing for easy removal

Temporarily clamp Biker Bar onto frame

Ride into the latches

Your bike is secure
