

New Stuff for Old Bikes

From special tools for Japanese motorcycles to parking pads for classics, here are six cool products every classic bike fan should know about

Japanese Phillips Drivers

Owners of Japanese motorcycles should check out Vessel JIS – Japanese Industrial Standard – screwdrivers. A JIS Phillips looks like a regular Phillips but is designed not to let the driver cam out. The problem is that non-JIS drivers are designed to cam out, resulting in stripped JIS Phillips-type screws, especially on tight applications. This eight-piece set includes Phillips and slotted drivers, and it also comes with a dedicated no. 3 Phillips impact driver that works better than any we've used. $79.74. ### ProAligner Wheel Aligning Tool

Developed by motorcyclists for motorcyclists, the ProAligner lets you accurately align just about any motorcycle wheels, including offset wheels, to within 0.1-inch with tires mounted and 0.05-inch with bare rims. The ProAligner uses a simple Z-shaped scale positioned between the front and rear wheels. Alignment is done by sighting down the front tire, centering the front, then the rear to the front. We found it works best when the rear tire is decidedly larger than the front. $29.95. More info: www.proaligner.com

Point of View Video

If you like the idea of capturing video when you ride but don't want to hassle with a separate video camera, check out the Durango Chameleon from Pivothead. Features include 1080p video and a Sony CMOS image sensor for clear still images. The unit can be configured for auto, continuous, fixed or macro focus settings. 8GB of internal memory means plenty of shooting time, there's a 75-degree field of view, and wind-resistant audio recording keeps playback clear. Choice of four lenses. $299. More info: www.pivothead.com

Parking Pad

Here's something particularly useful for those of us with less than perfect garage floors. Made from thick, tear-resistant poly-vinyl, Better Life Technology's Parking Pad makes rough floors smooth and gives you the perfect dedicated space to park your bike. Available in a variety of patterns, colors and graphics, the 5-foot x 10-foot pad we got went down flat and stayed flat. Solid colors are great for working surface and patterns hide oil leaks. $129.95 (approx.) and up. More info: www.bltlc.com

Features include a full-grain leather upper, a waterproof membrane, and an anti-slip sole, while special inserts in the ankle area help deliver all-day wearing comfort.
